

Oil and gas emissions plunge as coal ticks up

In the months since the U.S. and Israel attacked Iran, the International Energy Agency has sharply changed its forecast for fossil fuel demand worldwide through 2026. Here is how that changed the emissions outlook for each fuel compared with 2025.

Note: In million metric tons of CO2

Source: International Energy Agency, EPA, CarbonBrief

EVAN HALPER / THE WASHINGTON POST